FRIDAY, JANUARY 31, 1896

It is conference could settle the question the silver men would long ago have ended the financial discussion.

Yes, for once the croaker are right; that Segate Monroe Doctrine resolution is intended for effect—effect upon European nations.

Some people seem to have no idea that Gen. Harrison is doing something criminal in getting married again. Why, nobody could explain if they tried.

The gentlemen who have been so laboriously declining a third term nomination for Mr. Cleveland are still waiting to hear from Mr. Cleveland.

This Congressmen who attended Yvette Guilbert's Washington concert were disgusted to find her much less naughty than some of the society women they know.

WASHINGTON didn't get any of the political National conventions, but she has a cinch, on the inauguration of the man elected, which, after all, draws the largest crowd.

The semi-official publication of the statement that Great Britain is not seeking an alliance with any power, indicates that John Bull has been turned down by them all.

Now that New York school children are being taught that cigarette dealers are anticipating an enormous increase in the trade in that State.

ONE would suppose that Carlisle had made a bad enough mess as Secretary of the Treasury without trying to pose as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

CONGRESSMAN John W. Lewis knows a thing or two, if any body asks you. He has not appeared at the State Capital this winter, consequently did not get tangled in the Senatorial race.

The editor who said that "a woman is just as good as a man in Utah," might have added without stretching the truth, that she is a heap eight better in all the other States, and we believe also in Utah.

SENATOR Mills has kept thoroughly posted on the growth of Populism in Texas. He would just as soon be returned as a Populist as to go back as a Democrat. The all absorbing thing with him is to get back.

SOMEHOW it seems to be entirely fitting that the Democratic convention should be held in a Chicago building, especially built for horse shows; the mule is a kind of a horse, just as the Democratic party is a kind of a party.

SHOULD the bill making it a misdemeanor for a lobbyist to enter the Capitol building at Washington become a law and be strictly enforced, some Senators and Representatives would have to choose between lobbying and serving in Congress, instead of combining the two as they do now.

We have it from reliable source that the branch railroad from this place to some point on the C. O. & S. W. Railroad will be built in the near future. Our citizens should take hold of this proposition and lend their energies to the perfection of the enterprise. We need it and must have some connection with the outside world.

HON. E. T. FRANKS, the bright young Republican from the Second District, is entering upon his race for Congress in earnest. His friends throughout the District are very enthusiastic for him and feel confident of his nomination. Col. Sebree, of Henderson, is an announced candidate, but as Franks was turned down in '94 he deserves the nomination he seeks at the hands of his Republican constituents.

The talk of a new county is again being raised by the people of the Fordville country. The question is one of vital importance to every citizen in Ohio county. The county as proposed, would take off a large number of our people and a good territory would be taken from Ohio county. This we cannot afford to lose. Ohio county as she stands to-day is about teeth in area, and to cut that part of the county off would only serve to make two poorer counties. It would cut our taxable property down to a low figure, and of a necessity would increase the taxation of our citizens. The new county would have to bear her proportional part of the indebtedness of each county from which the new county is taken, thereby covering it so deep in debt that it would make an exorbitant tax on the people who are placed in its boundary. The proposition as it now stands affects Ohio county a great deal more than any other county that it would be taken from.

There is no necessity for any of our old soldiers going to war, if war should take place between the United States and some other nation. They could just give up their pensions for a year or two and stay at home. Enough money is expended annually to build a first-class navy. But, personally it would amount to about the same thing after all—some men would about as soon part with their blood as their pensions.

FINCH'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

MISS ISABELLE McHENRY.
(Daughter of the late Henry D. McHenry.)

AMERICANS are longing for the return of McKinleyism. McKinleyism is a synonym for prosperity, for business confidence and patriotism.

The new Locks and Dam on Rough River has been cracked so as to render it useless. It does seem that there has been enough money spent in cleaning out the River and building the lock and dam to have furnished us with boats here.

MR. V. B. BURTON, of Breckinridge county, is mentioned as a probable candidate for delegate to represent the Fourth Congressional District in the National Convention at St. Louis. It can be said of Mr. Burton that he is a sound Republican—sound to the core, and that he has been a ceaseless worker in behalf of his party.

HON. JOHN W. LEWIS' growing popularity is not confined to his brethren at Washington. He is pleasing his constituents at home. They have admired his dignified course in regard to affairs at Frankfort, and also the manner in which he stays at Washington and attends to the affairs of his district which he was sent there to represent.

WHAT has become of the "State Press" Column of the Louisville Commercial? The efforts of the country editors, to be sure, are not brilliant, neither are they, perhaps, entertaining. Nevertheless, the editorial comment, given from papers all over the State, show in a considerable manner the drift of opinion, on important questions. Even straws may show which way the wind is blowing.

PEACEFUL milch cows, standing on the streets, are at times, seized with a desire to cut a plug, as it were. They therefore rush to some bank of earth, where they begin to bellow and to paw up, and horn up the ground. By this means they get mud on their horns. In view of the manner in which, Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn has been cavorting around at Frankfort, it may be said of him, that he has mud on his horns, as it were.

It is evident that Mr. Cleveland wants the nomination of the Democratic party for the fourth time. It is quite natural that he should want his party to endorse him in the position he has taken on the financial question, and the Monroe Doctrine. Mr. Cleveland has a large following in his party besides the office holders. In the present distracted condition of the Democratic party, it is doubtful whether enough forces can be united against him to prevent him getting the nomination.

THE Fourth Congressional District should be proud of her representative Frankfort, as far as ability is concerned, and in other respects, too; they stand at the top. Messrs. Barnett, of this county, and Rice, Grayson county, are young men and have a brilliant future before them, if they act well their part. Indications are that they will do this. Mr. Blanford makes a capable presiding officer, and is fearless in the discharge of his duty, the Courier-Journal to the contrary, notwithstanding. It is our young men, however, who must bear the heat and burdens of the day. It is gratifying to know that they are making such a favorable beginning.

LISTEN, old soldier, at the twinkle of a paper seeking your patronage and support, and pretending to represent the sentiments of the Democratic party. Hear is what it says about the men who fought to preserve the Union. How does this strike you Democratic soldiers. The Hartford Herald says: "There is no necessity for any of our old soldiers going to war, if war should take place between the United States and some other nation. They could just give up their pensions for a year or two and stay at home. Enough money is expended annually to build a first-class navy. But, personally it would amount to about the same thing after all—some men would about as soon part with their blood as their pensions."

RANDOM NOTES.

Gathered From the World at Large.

Speaking of the real up-to-date girl a gossip says she must be as versatile as a lawyer, as witty as a professional humorist and as deceiving as the slight-of-hand performer. Without all of these qualities she might as well retire to a nunnery or some other place of seclusion, for she will not be in it with her more fortunate sisters. The scientific theory, which is an optimistic one, that everything is gradually evolving to a better end, has a good example in the girl of today. They have a keener sense of humor, so it is said, than girls had formerly, and certainly know more about the ways of the world. She knows how to distinguish the vulgar from the real, pure wit, and she never fails to take advantage of an opportunity that might in any way cause her stock to rise.

The Gossiper saw a real up-to-date girl the other night at the theatre. She is one of the kind that is strictly in it. "Hamlet" was being played. All the players, that is, all the men, wore tight, but those worn by the Polonians were a little worse for wear. One of them contained a hole near the right ankle. The young lady observed this as soon as he came upon the stage. Her companion saw it, too, but refrained from commenting about it. But the girl, alas, thought it was too funny to keep, and leaning over a little, whispered in her escort's ear loud enough to be heard by those sitting near. "If mamma had known of that hole she would not have allowed me to have come with you."

A traveling man came into the hotel a few days ago with a forlorn look, old and crippled, said he was making his first trip and was "kinder" homesick, didn't think he'd like a drummer's life, but it could not be worse. "Worse than what?" asked a bystander. "Home-like," he answered. "How's that," queried another. "At home," he said, "he had nine sons-in-law, and his only three sons were dead, each of his sons-in-law had ten children, all girls, and the girls each had a beau, who came Friday evening and stayed till Monday, and seven long years ago his mother-in-law came to pay him a short visit and she had forgotten to return to her home, and he had ninety-nine besides himself in family and girl's beaux made nearly two hundred. In fact, he said, he was not good in figuring and didn't know how many there were, so it couldn't be worse."

"Where are you from?" asked a dozen voices at once. "Hartwell, Hart county, Georgia." "Are you a farmer?" "No, but the girls is." "What do they raise?" "Well, peanuts and sorghum and some times cane." "What about their husbands?" "Well, they hunt and fish and raise enough 'terbacker for all to chew." "Those that's my train." "Yes," said the landlord, and his story and his trip was abruptly ended.

Prospect for a Catholic Church in Hartford.
The Rev. Edwin Drury, Catholic Missionary, who gave a four-nights lecture at the Court House here last week, made quite an impression upon the people here. He had good audiences every night and the strict attention paid the learned man, showed his lectures were enjoyed. Rev. Drury is a born Kentuckian and comes from one of the best families of the State. He was well known by some of our best townspeople and to these he promised to come again some time in the near future and deliver more of his lectures. There are only a few Catholics in Hartford, but if there were a church here they would come from all quarters.

HARDINSBURG.

HARDINSBURG, Jan. 29, '96.
Mr. W. G. Hodges, of Constantine, was in trouble here last Saturday. He had a charge preferred against him by L. S. Board for flourishing a deadly weapon in a threatening manner. His case was tried before Judge Mattingly. He made no plea, but it appeared that he had simply fired his pistol in the air. He was, however, thought to be a threat, from the fact that the on let whizzed by his ear and his nose was washed with iron in the revolver. The judge thought that Hodges had been rather reckless with his pistol and placed his fine at $500, with expenses. Hodges felt that he was a much abused man and appealed his case to Circuit Court.

Several of our citizens are in Oanishore in sweet attention, United States Court.

Mr. Cleyton Smith is in Oanishore to last week.
The five knighthood News last week took occasion to report a column and a half of criticism against Hon. Chas. Blanford as Speaker of the House of Representatives, and yet the News gets half, if not more of its patronage from the good Republicans of this county.

Mr. Allen R. Kincheloe, Chairman of the Republican Committee of this county and a popular young attorney, is on the sick list this week.

The public school which has been successfully taught by Prof. Frank Jarboe closed this week. The primary department under Miss Lillie Cooper closed last Friday. Miss Cooper returned to her home at Rath, this county.

The Circuit Court docket for the February term is light. There are about thirty appearances to be distributed among twelve or fifteen lawyers, most of whom have patches on their pants below their back suspender buttons.

A big revival is in progress at Hazel Dell, this county. It is conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mussey, assisted by Rev. W. B. Sneed. Not only young people are being saved, but older ones are also going forward to the anxious seat. There is a shaking of dry bones out there.

Judge Ahl was in Frankfort this week. He went there to meet other judges of the State, who will endeavor to obtain legislation, to make the terms of Quarter Court, a shorter length of time. The judges think that the prevailing laws are too favorable to police courts, allowing them to have a monthly session.

Mr. Joe Wood was brought before Judge Ahl last week, charged with selling whisky in a local option district. The case was tried by a jury and Bro. Wood was found guilty. The jury fixed his fine at one hundred dollars. Here is a pointer for communities that are annoyed by blind tigers, etc.

The students at the Breckinridge Normal College have organized a Literary Society.

The army of tramps abroad in the land are not diminishing in number. They are rather increasing at this place. Within the last month several able bodied men have passed through town, out of work, and unable to get work. They ask for something to eat or a place to stay all night, and move on. The way lares tests and houses of refuge in the larger cities, it seems, are overrun by the unemployed. The American people have paid dearly for experimenting with the McKinley tariff law. They know more now than they did in the year 1892, and this year, 1896, will witness such a flocking with the folds of the Republican party as was never dreamed of by the most enthusiastic Republican.

ROUND ROOM.
"Five years ago," says Angus A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y., "I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles was completely cured."

Popular Monthly's Great Lee Articles.
There is no American, living or dead, North or South, who stood nearer the hearts of the people, or whose memory is held with more sacred affection, than General Robert E. Lee. All on this side of the wiper-out but never-to-be-forgotten "line" feel that they know him; but there is still much of his history and that of his family and his ancestors that has never yet been told. On this account the * * * is pleased to note the announcement of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly regarding the series of notable Lee papers that begin in the February issue. The first is "The Ancestors of General Robert E. Lee and the Times in Which They Lived," by Mrs. Judge Roger A. Piyor, of New York. The whole series, beginning with the earliest colonial times down to the present date, will be enriched with numerous portraits and illustrations of special interest, heretofore unprinted, and a large speaking likeness in water colors of General Lee. Altogether these articles will form a valuable addition to the history of the great men of the nation.

A Card of Thanks.
We take this opportunity of thanking the people of Hartford and surrounding communities for their liberal donations. Fine aid was homeless but we did not find ourselves helpless. We speak with the old adage, "A friend in need is a friend indeed."

DR. P. T. RHODES

In the Clutches of the Law with a Grave Charge Hanging Over Him.

He Declines to Talk only to Assert His Innocence.

Dr. P. T. Rhodes, a former resident of Beaver Dam, and a prominent young physician of the Newville community, has been accused of poisoning Jared Robinson, who died last July, and was arrested Monday night charged with the murder. Dr. Rhodes has many friends and relatives in this county, and as he had always borne an untarnished reputation his friends are loathe to believe him guilty. His examining trial occurs at Owensboro to-day. Wednesday's Inquirer has the following to say about the case:

Since last July when Jared Robinson, a citizen of Newville, died suddenly there have been rumors of foul play and the talk of the community has been that Robinson never died a natural death, but that he had been poisoned. Dr. P. T. Rhodes a young physician of the village of Newville, has been thought to be making other than professional visits to the household of Robinson and it was newsed abroad that Mrs. Robinson and the physician were more intimate than was proper.

When Robinson was taken off so suddenly, whispering he came to life that Dr. Rhodes had administered poison, which hastened the death. This was the talk of the neighborhood last summer and fall, but it had died out in a manner and was being rapidly forgotten until yesterday, when Mrs. Delphia Hackett, the mother of the departed Robinson, appeared before Squire Sutherland in this city and made sworn affidavit charging Dr. P. T. Rhodes with the murder of her son, by means of poison, which produces immediate death, and that it was done with felonious intent.

When the defendant asked for a statement he answered that he was not prepared to make any statement at this time other than to assert his innocence. Later on, as his attorney's deems it advisable, he will prepare a statement for publication.

Dr. Rhodes has many friends around Newville, who vouch for his innocence. One of them was heard to say to-day that the Doctor's arrest was an outrage and a shame, and that it had been superinduced by a notoriously unreliable citizen of the town, who could not be credited on oath. Many express confidence that Rhodes will be discharged at the preliminary hearing.

A POLE RAILWAY IN NOVA SCOTIA.

Several of these picturesque railways are in use in the lumber districts of Nova Scotia. They cost anywhere from $5 to $20 per mile, according to local circumstances. The expense, of course, is greater when the road has to be carried across ravines, as indicated in our engraving. The poles employed for rails should not be less than nine inches in diameter at the small end, and should consist as far as possible of the heart, or they will decay before they wear out. The locomotives and cars are crude affairs, but well adapted for the purpose for which they are intended.

SNAKE IN THE HOUSE.

McCaunon's Pot Was Quite Friendly with Strangers.

But a Casual Visitor from the East Objected to Sleeping with It—The Reptile Cooled Around the Dinnerer's Ankles.

Thomas McCaunon, who represents a New York firm, and lives in Jersey City, met with an experience the other week near Birmingham, Minn., that nearly whitened his raven locks. McCaunon, whose business lies among the country merchants and rural districts, engaged a vehicle and drove to a settlement near Milford. He reached his destination, but his stay was unexpectedly protracted, and dusk had fallen when he again found himself on the homeward road. Thicker and thicker grew the blackness, the sky was overcast, not a star visible, and the prospect of a heavy rainstorm imminent.

Under those conditions he missed his road, and after a drive of several miles through a forest highway ended abruptly in a dense undergrowth. In the distance he saw the twinkle of a light, and fastening his horse to a tree he made his way in that direction. It proved to come from a cabin of roughly hewn boards and logs. A summons brought the occupant to the door. He was an old man with the peculiar vernal of the mountaineer of northern Pennsylvania, and when McCaunon explained his predicament he warmly welcomed him to his hut. The only accommodation he could offer the horse was a shaky lean-to at the rear of his dwelling, but here the animal was stabled on a bed of fens. There was but one couch in the shanty. This stood behind a rough partition, and after serving his guest with a lunch of cold partridge and corn bread, he signified his intention of releasing the bed to him and sleeping in the large room beside the log fire. McCaunon gratefully accepted the offer, and was soon oblivious to his surroundings.

How long he slept he cannot tell. He thinks it was about midnight, but it was probably nearer daylight, when he was awakened by a cold, clammy sensation at his feet. The blanket had slipped partially off, and as a ray of moonlight shone through a rift in the clouds his blood froze with horror as he observed a large snake coiled upon his ankles. His first impulse was to spring from the bed and shout for aid. Then the thought crossed his mind that the place was infested with rattlers, and a movement on his part might mean certain death. There was only one thing to do; wait perfectly quiet until the old man should awake and come to his aid. The reptile remained passive. The seconds seemed to drag like hours, and it seemed as though the unhappy drummer must spring from his couch and shake the slimy snake off or go frantic. He watched the sky fade into the gray which precedes dawn, and as a crimson streak shot across the sky there was a movement in the next room and a grizzled head appeared at the aperture which served as a doorway.

"Hush," whispered McCaunon, "for God's sake don't speak or I am a dead man."

"What's the matter?"

"Look at my feet," whispered McCaunon.

The old man looked and then burst into a laugh. "I swear to Tommy that I never saw a snake as big as that!"

"He's a pet milk snake o' mine," explained the old man, "and 'pears ter make as friendly with strangers as he does with me." Without a word McCaunon arose, dressed himself, and, laying a silver dollar on the table, hurried his horse and started for Birmingham.

ALMOST A LINO TYPE RECORD.

Old Man of Eighty Gives the Boys Editors on Typetting.

John Speer entered his 80th year the other day at Wichita, Kan., and celebrated the event by making a world's record for a printer of that age, setting 10,000 ems in eight hours.

Mr. Speer is the pioneer editor of Kansas, but Quinrell burned his office in the Lawrence massacre, and killed two of his sons, since which time he has been in comparatively poor circumstances.

A few months ago he concluded to publish the life of that picturesque Kansas statesman, Senator Jim Lane. He is now at the work, and has 260 pages out of 400 stereotyped. As an instance of his remarkable memory, he is compiling the life of Lane as he sets the type. He averages 5,000 ems a day. Those who have read the proofs say the history is very correct, and the literary style quite interesting.

Mr. Speer will have no assistance in the work, and he insists on setting all the type (composing as he goes along) and proofing it. He has two cases of type at the residence of his son, and he stands up before them eight hours every day.

Mr. Speer was in the first batch of emigrants that came from New England to Lawrence to oppose slavery in Kansas, and he was conspicuous both personally and with his pen in the fight for a free state.

USES A CIRCUS POSTER.

Pastor's Sensational Announcement of a Campaign Against Satan and Sin.

Rev. C. M. Starkweather, of the Sherman Street Methodist church, of Milwaukee, Wis., who recently attracted a good deal of attention by forming a church club under the name of the Christian Labor union, has a new fad. It is in the form of a circus poster, and announces to the world in language bristling with adjectives that he is going to open a "hundred days' campaign against Satan and sin." The meetings, in the language of the poster, are to be "brief, bright and brotherly," and there are to be "solos and sermons," bringing "spiritually" for the church members, "salvation for the working men and friendliness for everybody else." The poster is ornamented with a picture of Rev. Mr. Starkweather, who is a young man of more than ordinary comeliness. He was formerly a reporter in Oshkosh, and in starting his campaign against Satan he has adopted the working man's friendliness for everybody else. The poster is ornamented with a picture of Rev. Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel P. Richter. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Richter and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Richter is on every wrapper.

Write us a letter covering these three points: First—State how long you have known, or used, or sold "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine."

Second—State diseases you have known it to cure and give the names of those cured by it.

Third—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Zellin & Co., and the "Black Draught" made by Chattanooga Medicine Co.; both of which have sold to dealers at 6 or 7 cents per package, not, and should retail at not over 10 or 12 cents. If consumers are not imposed upon, while our Original article cannot be sold at less than 25 cents per package, as we have too much regard for human life to use cheap drugs in any of our medicines. The reason is plain. Zellin & Co. and the old proprietors of "Black Draught" were both enjoined from deceiving the public by using the words constituting our trade name; therefore, look out that some dealer (not knowing you are posted) don't sell you some cheap package at a profit of 200 or 400 per cent. Instead of our Genuine "Dr. M. A. Simmons Liver Medicine," which you are sure to specify, and take no other, as there is nothing else like it.
